

Our latest World Cup race in St. Moritz ended with a seventh place which equals our highest place finish in the season so far. However, the biggest story from the race day seems to have been the race suit incident. Gill's aerodynamic skin suit suffered a mishap on the second run leaving the whole world to see the the power of a bobsleigh butt.

Thankfully Gill's derriere was in pristine condition as a result of team physio Sarah McDowell's intensive glute workouts. Since the clothing malfunction there has been renewed motivation and enthusiasm within the team for these daily exercices to improve our buttocks in relation to both appearance and function!

Gill commented, 'As an athlete, you are used to dealing with the unexpected and this is just one more thing to add to the list. If it made us go faster I'd do it every time!'
